

[C. Reginald Ford

- 1 — This photograph, which shows Black-browed Mollymawks (D. melanophris) — note the pattern of the underwing — in the south Atlantic, is of historic as well as ornithological interest. It was taken about October, 1901, by Mr. C. R. Ford, who is still living, when he was on board the 'Discovery' as a member of Scott's First Antarctic Expedition.