

[G. J. H. Moon

XXXVIII — Red-fronted Parakeet (C. novaezelandiae) at nest on Little Barrier. Now scarce on the main islands, this parakeet remains plentiful on many offshore islands.

[G. J. H. Moon

XXXIX—The Whitehead (Mohoua albigilla) has a somewhat peculiar distribution in the North Island. It is very common on Little Barrier, where this photograph was taken.

[G. J. H. Moon

XL — The elusive Banded Rail (Rallus philippensis) is not uncommon along the mangrove creeks of northern New Zealand. The beauty of its markings is seldom noted.